A well-articulated customer problem statement allows you and your team to find the ideal solution for the challenges your customers face. Throughout the process, you'll also be able to empathize with your customers, which helps you better understand how they perceive your product or service.

Example:

Problem Statement (PS)	I am (Customer)	I'm trying to	But	Because	Which makes me feel
PS-1	a bank credit officer reviewing many credit card applications each day	assess every applicant's income, job status, and credit background quickly and reliably	the existing manual process is slow and relies mostly on personal judgment	the bank lacks a consistent, automated method to rate an applicant's creditworthiness	pressured and uncertain whether every decision made is fair and financially sound

PS-2	a person who has submitted an application for a new credit card	get a fast and impartial decision on whether the application gets approved	the process can take several days without a clear reason for the outcome	approvals depend on manual checks that vary between different officers	nervous during the wait and disappointed when denied without any explanation
